U.S. Agricultural Trade Update

Economic Research Service
U.S. Department of Agriculture

July 20, 1989

Trade Surplus

Trade Surplus Shrinks - May's agricultural trade surplus narrowed to $1.37 billion as exports fell seasonally and imports rose 6 percent. Cumulatively, FY 1989's agricultural trade surplus reached $13.2 billion in May, 37 percent above the same 8 months of FY 1988 (table 3).

Exports Lower - U.S. agricultural exports fell more than $100 million to $3.3 billion during May. Soybean, soybean meal, wheat, sorghum, barley, and tobacco exports dropped below April levels. Although corn, cotton, and rice shipments showed significant month-to-month increases, sharply lower wheat and soybean exports were more than offsetting.

U.S. soybean exports fell to $177 million with volume plunging 43 percent to 630,000 tons. Exports were lower to the EC, Japan, and Taiwan—three markets who together account for 50-80 percent of all U.S. soybean shipments in any given month. Exports to all three customers have fallen in FY 1989, but sales to the EC have been curtailed the most, a reflection of switching from protein meal to grain consumption this year in the EC. Total U.S. soybean exports during the first 8 months of FY 1989 fell almost 6 million tons below year-earlier shipments (table 2).

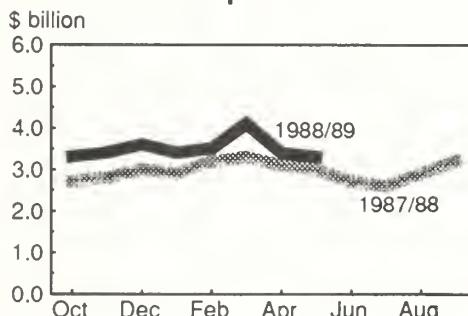

U.S. corn exports increased in May, climbing $92 million as the volume of shipments rose 859,000 tons to 5.4 million. Shipments to the USSR more than doubled to 2.4 million tons, marking an eight month surge in U.S. corn exports to the Soviet Union. Largely because of the Soviet purchases, the volume of U.S. corn exports during the last 8 months has averaged more than 4.5 million tons, the highest since 1985 and the second highest since August 1982. As of early July, U.S. FY 1989 corn sales to the USSR stood at a record 16.3 million tons.

Wheat exports fell 20 percent during May, dropping by $110 million and 660,000 tons. Reduced exports to the USSR more than offset increases for China and Egypt. Although the USSR has been a major customer for U.S. wheat in FY 1989, sales are expected to remain well below FY 1988's record 9 million tons.

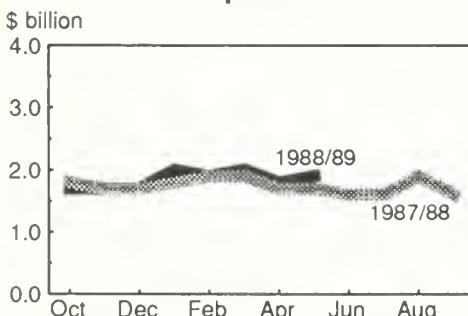

Cotton exports strengthened in May as shipments gained momentum to Japan and continued strong to China and Korea. At $203 million and 148,000 tons, cotton exports were also above May 1988 shipments. Typically, they peak in March and their seasonal declines accelerate in May. This year, U.S. cotton has grown increasingly competitive, altering seasonal patterns. Usually, export volume falls about 68 percent from March to May, but instead rose 7 percent this year. (Steve MacDonald, 202-786-1821)

Imports Up Slightly - U.S. agricultural imports totaled more than $1.9 billion in May, 6 percent above last month, and 16 percent higher than in May 1988. Imports of meats, dairy products, vegetable oils, wine, beer, sugar, and natural rubber showed gains over April (table 6). Lower imports were reported for cocoa, live animals, and tobacco. (Steve Milmoe, 202-786-1821)

Exports

Imports

International Coffee Quotas Ended - The International Coffee Organization (ICO) announced in July that the export quotas governing much of world coffee trade would no longer be in force. With the prospect of unrestricted world trade in coffee, prices plummeted from $1.14 per pound on June 30 to 90 cents by July 7. The United States is the world's largest coffee importer, and coffee is one of the largest U.S. agricultural imports, totaling $2.6 billion in FY 1988. (Steve Milmoe, 202-786-1821)
